Introduction

IC-MSQUARE is an international interdisciplinary conference covering research and development in the field of mathematical modeling in physical sciences. The conference aims to promote the knowledge and the development of high-quality research in mathematical fields that have to do with the applications of other scientific fields and the modern technological trends that appear in them, these fields being those of Physics, Chemistry, Biology, Medicine, Economics, Sociology, Environmental sciences etc.

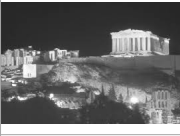

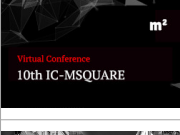

The conference aims at creating a forum for further discussion providing networking possibilities to participants. Therefore, the call for papers is addressed to scholars and/or professionals of related scientific fields.

Local organisers, for 2025, have selected Amorgos, a beautiful Greek island but due to an unexpected seismic activity in the area and to significant changes launched for the operation and management of the conference, the next conference on the year 2025 is scheduled to be done online from October 20 to 23 October 2025.

The official conference language is English. All papers that will be presented at the IC-MSQUARE Conference (oral, poster and virtual presentations) will be peer reviewed in order to be incorporated in the Conference Proceedings.

Don't miss this opportunity to promote your products and services in this rapidly developing field to pre-eminent scientific leaders and international delegates via our range of exhibition and sponsorship opportunities.
